Wilmington University Offers Free Financial Aid Information Sessions This Summer

Wednesday, June 22, 2011 - New Castle, DE

Thinking about college? Curious about your financial aid options? Along with a unique mix of small class sizes, affordable tuition, and a commitment to academic excellence, Wilmington University is dedicated to providing assistance to students looking to finance their education.

This summer, Wilmington University's Financial Aid Office is offering a series of free information sessions to prospective students and the general public. These sessions will focus on the often-complicated process of completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), and help prospective students and their families understand the financial aid process and the types of financial aid available. Beginning in June and continuing into July and August, the seminars will be held at University locations in New Castle, Middletown, Dover, North Wilmington, and southern New Jersey.

These sessions are free, open to all, and registration is not required. The University began offering these financial aid information sessions in 2009 as part of a community outreach program. The program was developed out of a task force, organized by the President of Wilmington University, Dr. Jack Varsalona. Due to the success of these sessions, the University has decided to continue to hold them this year.

Attendees are asked to bring a copy of their 2010 Federal Tax Return and W2s for on-site FAFSA filing assistance. Wilmington University staff will walk attendees through the FAFSA application process and answer any questions about the financial aid process.
