Note: Meal counts should not always match the production records exactly. Even though production records are not required in SFSP, they can be used to ensure a site is not claiming more meals than produced. Also, the number of meals should not always be the same daily. Sponsors should review the meal counts submitted by sites for unusual meal count patterns (e.g., first meals always or usually equals meals delivered), per the 2016 SFSP Administration Guide. Not having leftovers on any day at any site is considered to be an unusual pattern in the meal count.
