What is the Parent Engagement Survey

The Parent Engagement Survey is given to the parents/guardians of children with Individualized Education Programs (IEP). The purpose of the survey is to provide districts/charters with feedback from parents/guardians regarding their satisfaction with the IEP process.

Why is the Parent Engagement Survey Important?

The Parent Engagement Survey is important because the results are used to help districts/charters improve the special education and related services provided to children with IEPs. Your feedback is important.

About the Parent Engagement Survey

- Survey submissions are anonymous.
- 11 Questions
- Available in English, Spanish, and Haitian-Creole languages
- May be returned by mail or completed online with the QR scan code

The school encourages and supports my involvement in my child's education in order to improve services and results for my child.
I participate in school-sponsored activities such as open house, parent conferences, special events, volunteer, etc.
I am given the opportunity to provide input into my child's IEP prior to the IEP meeting. Examples of providing input may include a parent survey and/or review of my child's draft IEP.
I received or was offered a copy of my parental rights and procedural safeguards booklet, "Special Education Rights of Parents and Children" at my child's IEP meeting.
My child's IEP is explained to me in terms I understand.
My child's IEP addresses his/her academic, behavioral, social/emotional, and functional needs.
The IEP team discussed whether my child needs ESY (Extended School Year) services.
Staff that work with my child understand his/her disability.
I am comfortable expressing concerns to school staff and my concerns and opinions are respected by the IEP team.
I feel I can disagree with my child's special education program or services without negative consequences for me or my child.
I receive a copy of my child's progress on IEP goals at the end of each marking period.
