Overview

Author Study: Kate Chopin

by Kimba Rael, Gayle Jones Westerberg, Tara Henderson, Curtis Garcia, Annette Chavez, Maia Goodman, and Mary Rubadeau

This module draws from a National Endowment for the Humanities unit plan for Kate Chopin's The Awakening and blends this focus with additional study of three of Chopin's short stories: "The Story of an Hour," "Desiree's Child," and "The Storm." Through the study of one author, students will explore the ways in which authors use characters to shape themes for larger social and political commentary. Additionally, students will relate other literary elements and movements to Chopin's work including setting, dialect, literary realism, and literary criticism. This module follows previous work over the year using different critical lenses as a culminating activity in the spring.

Grades: 11 12

Mary Rubadeau (Colorado Consultant)
Section 1: What Task?

TEACHING TASK

Task Template 21 — [3 Levels]

L1: How does Kate Chopin use character development to shape themes for larger social and political commentary? After reading The Awakening, "The Story of an Hour," "Desiree’s Child," and "The Storm", write an article that addresses the question and analyzes character development specifically in relation to other characters in the texts and generally in relation to social and political contexts, providing examples to clarify your analysis. What conclusion or implications can you draw? A bibliography, or works cited, is required.

STUDENT BACKGROUND

As we conclude our exploration of critical lenses, we will embark upon an author study of Kate Chopin. Through the study of one author, we will explore the ways in which authors use characters to shape themes for larger social and political commentary. Additionally, we will relate other literary elements and movements to Chopin's work including setting, dialect, literary realism, and literary criticism.

Common Core Anchor Standards — Reading

R.CCR.1: Read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.

R.CCR.2: Determine central ideas or themes of a text and analyze their development; summarize the key supporting details and ideas.

R.CCR.4: Interpret words and phrases as they are used in a text, including determining technical, connotative, and figurative meanings, and analyze how specific word choices shape meaning or tone.

R.CCR.6: Assess how point of view or purpose shapes the content and style of a text.

R.CCR.10: Read and comprehend complex literary and informational texts independently and proficiently.

Common Core Anchor Standards — Writing

W.CCR.2: Write informative/explanatory texts to examine and convey complex ideas and information clearly and accurately through the effective selection, organization, and analysis of content.

W.CCR.4: Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.

W.CCR.5: Develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, editing, rewriting, or trying a new approach.

W.CCR.9: Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research.

W.CCR.10: Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of tasks, purposes, and audiences.

Colorado — Reading, Writing and Communicating - (Reading for All Purposes)

RWC.11.2.1: Complex literary texts require critical reading approaches to effectively interpret and evaluate meaning.

RWC.11.2.1.A.III: Use Key Ideas and Details to: Analyze the impact of the author's choices regarding how to develop and relate elements of a story or drama (e.g., where a story is set, how the action is ordered, how the characters are introduced and developed). (CCSS: RL.11-12.3)

RWC.11.2.1.B.III: Use Craft and Structure to: Explain the influence of historical context on the form, style, and point of view of a written work.

RWC.11.2.1.C.II: Use Integration of Knowledge and Ideas to: Demonstrate knowledge of eighteenth-, nineteenth- and early-twentieth-century foundational works of American literature, including how two or more texts from the same period treat similar themes or topics. (CCSS: RL.11-12.9)

RWC.11.2.3: Knowledge of language, including syntax and grammar, influence the understanding of literary, persuasive, and informational texts.

Setting the Purpose

TASK ANALYSIS: Ability to use the prompt to establish a purpose for approaching the texts.

Reading Process

IDENTIFYING KEY VOCABULARY IN CONTEXT: Ability to identify strategies for and utilize how to develop vocabulary understandings through context.

READING FOR LITERARY DEVICES: Ability to identify and evaluate the effect of authors’ choices for setting, character development, and other literary elements.

CLOSE READING: Ability to closely read chunked sections of text multiple times for deepening understandings.

ANALYZING TEXT: Explain the influence of historical context on the form, style, and point of view of a written work.

FUNCTIONAL LANGUAGE ANALYSIS: Ability to evaluate the construction of meaning through syntax, grammar, and word choice; specifically: experiential, interpersonal, and textual meanings.

Transition to Writing

BRIDGING DISCUSSION: Discuss how two or more texts from the same period treat similar themes or topics.

Writing Process

THESIS: Ability to establish a thesis.

DRAFT DEVELOPMENT: Ability to construct an initial draft with an emerging line of thought and structure and make clarifying warrants, connections and provide supportive textual examples as evidence.

PEER EDITING AND REVISION: Ability to proofread a peer's writing and make meaningful revision suggestions for a piece to make it more effective and substantiated.
Section 3: What Instruction?

MiniTasks

Setting the Purpose

TASK ANALYSIS: Ability to use the prompt to establish a purpose for approaching the texts.

NOTES
Working with the person next to you, describe the key elements you will be reading for while studying the texts of Kate Chopin?

Pacing: 15 minutes

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
No Scoring

Teaching Strategies:
Present the task to students.
Have students think, pair, share to report out the key elements we will investigate while working on the module.
Take group notes as a recorder on the board.
Have students write key elements on a bookmark for the novella.

Reading Process

IDENTIFYING KEY VOCABULARY IN CONTEXT: Ability to identify strategies for and utilize how to develop vocabulary understandings through context.

LIST
Create a list of words we define and the context clues associated with each one (including page numbers)

Pacing: on-going throughout reading portion of the module

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
no scoring: formative only; however, will be measured with examples on an assessment at the end of the reading portion of the module.

Teaching Strategies:
Prior to all reading sections, the teacher will select key academic words that are critical to understanding the text.
Teacher will introduce each word and ask students to work in pairs to identify contextual information to assist in identifying the meaning of the word. Students will share to context clues with the class. This process will continue with at minimum 1-2 words each day.

Notes:
Word selection should be based upon student need and academic (tier 2) options.

READING FOR LITERARY DEVICES: Ability to identify and evaluate the effect of authors’ choices for setting, character development, and other literary elements.

SHORT CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Short reflective entry for each text:
In what ways do Chopin’s texts reflect attributes of literary realism, local color, and/or regionalism? What effects do these choices have on meaning and aesthetics? How does the setting and culture of each text work as an important component of each protagonist’s transformation?
(questions adapted from the EDSITEment Lesson 2)

Pacing: 1 day for each text (4 days total, but could be combined with other activities)

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
• Answers questions with supporting textual evidence from each text that demonstrates understanding of the literary device under study (setting, regionalisms, dialect, and character development)

Teaching Strategies:
For the Awakening, follow the EDSITEment lesson 2:
Activity 1. Chopin, Realism, and Local Color in late 19th Century America
Have students visit one or more of the following sites (you might break them into groups to work on different sites), which detail aspects of Realism, Local Color, and Regionalism:
Realism in American Literature, 1860-1890, a resource available through Literary resources on the Net from EDSITEment-reviewed Internet Public Library
Regionalism and Local Color Fiction, 1865-1895, a resource available through Literary resources on the Net from EDSITEment-reviewed Internet Public Library
American Realism, from EDSITEment-reviewed American Collection, which has an extensive definition of the literary movement.
Introduction to Literature in the American South (via Documenting the American South), particularly the section on Local Color, which lists the following as the “primary subject matter of this fictional movement:
Peculiarities of speech quaint local customs distinctive modes of thought and stories about human nature

This section draws from the Encyclopedia of Southern Culture edited by Charles Reagan Wilson and William Ferris. Copyright (c) 1989 by the University of North Carolina Press, which is used by permission by Documenting the American South.

The Regionalism section of Introduction to Literature in the American South has a particularly poignant description of the rise of local color and regionalist literature:
The South played a major role in the local color movement that followed the Civil War. Although the beginning of the movement is usually dated from the first publication in the Overland Monthly in 1868 of Bret Harte's stories of California mining camps, a disproportionate number of contributors of local color stories to national magazines were southerners. The genesis of the local color movement was not surprising. The outcome of the Civil War signified the victory of nationalism over regional interests. With the increasing move toward urbanization and industrialization following the war and the concurrent diminishing of regional differences, it is not surprising that there was a developing nostalgia for remaining regional differences.

Local color writing, which was regionally, and often rurally, based and usually took the form of short stories intended for mass consumption, met a need for stories about simpler times and faraway places.

This section draws from the Encyclopedia of Southern Culture edited by Charles Reagan Wilson and William Ferris. Copyright (c) 1989 by the University of North Carolina Press, which is used by permission by Documenting the American South.

Historical and Literary Contexts, through EDSITEment resource Scribbling Women (while this is ostensibly about Chopin's story "At the 'Cadian Ball," the background information is still applicable to The Awakening)

Students should research the attributes of realism, local color, and/or regionalism. Working in groups (group size as appropriate for class size), students should find a passage in the novel that exhibits one or more aspects of these styles. Students should list why the passage reflects realism, local color, or regionalism; they should read the passage closely, giving detailed evidence. Each group should present their passage and their findings while the instructor lists the passages and their attributes on the board. At the end of the class activity, several passages from the novel will be available for further discussion.

Teachers might want to lead the class through an example of the exercise using one passage (perhaps selected from one below). In this case, the teacher would lead a class analysis first, and then establish groups to perform the activity on their own.

Possible questions to explore as students encounter different passages may include:

How is the setting of the novel described? What are some unique features of the setting?

What are some attributes of Creole culture or behavior that are foreign to Edna or exclude her? What is Edna’s background—how is she different?
How did the setting and culture create the environment that allowed for Edna's "awakening" while also condemning the choices that she made? Is there evidence of contradictory beliefs in the Creole culture that Chopin described?

What does Madame Ratignolle mean when she says to Robert of Edna: "She is not one of us; she is not like us. She might make the unfortunate blunder of taking you seriously" (beginning of Chapter VIII; page 64 Penguin Classics edition)? How is Edna different? What instances are there where Edna's "outsider" role affects or hinders her participation in Creole society?

Selected Passages

The following passages are only a few of many that students might examine in context of realism, local color, or regionalism.

Edna is a Protestant from Kentucky, and her "outsider" status in the predominantly Catholic, Creole society that she finds herself in helps illuminate the Creole culture in Louisiana. Chapter IV—especially the last few paragraphs—speaks specifically to some of the cultural differences Edna encounters, including an "entire absence of prudery," reconciled "with a lofty chastity which in the Creole women seems to be inborn and unmistakable."

In Chapter V, Edna, "with excessive naïveté," proposes that she might "make Alphonse jealous"—a statement that amuses the Creoles in her presence, who know "the Creole husband is never jealous." These statements are embedded in a discussion of Robert's affections towards Edna, who knows that "he had often spoken words of love to Madame Ratignolle, without any thought of being taken seriously." Edna expresses relief that he "had not assumed a similar role toward herself. It would have been unacceptable and annoying."

Note that Edna's "awakening" starts in Chapter VI—"A certain light was beginning to dawn dimly within her—the light which, showing the way, forbids it." In what way does the local culture both allow and forbid her awakening? How does the region play a role in Edna's transformation?

Chapter VII has several significant passages, including Edna's recollection of her life in Kentucky and how she met and married her husband. This passage about Leónce—which begins (if searching via an e-text) "Her marriage to Leónce Pontellier was purely an accident"—is wonderful for exploring the reaction of Realism to the dangers of Sentimentalism. Edna's sweeping passion for Leónce (and his for her) is later cooled by realities: "She grew fond of her husband, realizing with some unaccountable satisfaction that no trace of passion or excessive and fictitious warmth colored her affection, thereby threatening its dissolution." Chopin is not only commenting on Edna and Leónce's relationship—she is also attacking sentimentalist literature that preceded the move towards realism. More details about sentimentalist literature can be found under the "Types: Sentimentalism" section of The Early American Novel: Introductory Notes, a resource available through Literary Resources on the Net from EDSITEment-reviewed Internet Public Library.

Similar activities should be constructed for each of the short story texts.
CLOSE READING: Ability to closely read chunked sections of text multiple times for deepening understandings.

SHORT CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
For the Awakening: Analyze Edna Pontellier’s character development specifically in relation to other characters in the novella and generally in relation to women’s roles in 19th-century America (from EDSITEment Lesson 3)
For "The Story of an Hour:" Underline 5 phrases that you feel are significant to the text as whole. (Discussion prompt) What is the setting? What choices does the author make in regards to the setting? What effect do these choices have on interpretation? Is there an epiphany? What words does the author use to accentuate this?
For "The Storm:" What language choices does the author make to connect elements of the setting to the character’s changes in the text?
For "Désirée’s Baby:"
How is language used to represent stereotypes of character and social beliefs/concerns of the period?

Pacing: 4-6 class periods (1-2 for each text)

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
Character Chart is completed using textually supported entries for each element (textual support could also come from research into context)
Response following discussion re: "The Story of an Hour" cites specific language from the text to support interpretations of setting, theme, and the use of epiphany.
No scoring for other texts: based upon literature discussions that draw from paired discussions of re-reading of texts.

Teaching Strategies:
From the EDSITEment page Lesson 3 for The Awakening:
Activity 1. Kate Chopin's Characters
Students will track other characters in the novel, charting their relationship to Edna Pontellier. Chopin uses Edna's relationships to others to help explain what roles she does not want to fall into—an 'old maid' like Mademoiselle Reisz, a 'perfect mother' like Madame Ratignolle, a mistress to Alcee Arobin, and so on. Using one of the following e-text versions of The Awakening, students can perform a search using some of the names in order to better find passages specific to the characters they are examining. Two e-texts are available for use:
The Awakening available through the Library of Southern Literature (via Documenting the American South)
The Awakening made available by UVA's E-Text Center, a resource available through EDSITEment-approved Center for Liberal Arts
[Note: if using this edition to run searches, select the option “The Entire Work” so that the searches are not limited by chapter]

[Technical Instructions: In a web browser, you perform a text search by selecting the Edit menu, then selecting Find, then typing or pasting the search term into the box]

Instructions: Use the following table (by printing out this page), or download the “Activity 1. Kate Chopin's Characters” PDF file or an online MarcoPolo interactive (requires Flash).

In the "description of character" column, note specific attributes of that character as described in The Awakening. In the second column, describe their relationship to Edna—what role do they serve in her life? How are the two characters alike or different? In the third column, explain what the character does—what is their role in society? Can they be classified as a "type" of person? What is their social status?

Table for character descriptions:
Character Name;
Description of Character (who they are as a person)
Relationship to Edna? (who they are in relation to Edna)
Role, job, or place in society? (who they are in society)

Madame Ratignolle
Mademoiselle Reisz
Mariequita (see Chapter 12)
"lady in black"
Madame Lebrun
"the lovers" (young couple)
Quadroon Nurse

Using the chart, students will profile the characters by writing down specific details about the various women characters in the text. How are the characters in these scenes portrayed? What is their relationship to Edna? What is their social status?

Students should describe the characters' beliefs (especially about the role of women in society) or place in society as they can best deduce by the evidence. If they had to choose one or two words to describe that character's "type," what would those words be?

After students fill out the chart, they should—either in groups or as an entire class—compare the various characters' status, situation, and choices in life to that of Edna Pontellier. Is this lifestyle appropriate to the kind of life Edna wants to lead? Why or why not? In other words, how does the presence of the female character show a path that Edna could pursue, and what might some reasons be that Edna does not follow that path?

How do the following male characters help establish Edna's options in life? Does her relationship with any of them push her towards becoming like one of the other women in the list?
Leónce Pontellier (Edna's husband)
Raoul and Etienne Pontellier (Edna's children)
Robert Lebrun
Alcée Arobin

Discussions will occur in small groups, pairs, or discussion seminars in which student discuss passages they locate and the importance of each to the text. These will occur for each short story. The prompt questions will be used to stimulate deeper exploration of the text, but many text dependent questions will arise from delving into the rationale and word choice of the phrases selected by the students. Each text, when being discussed, will first be analyzed by students for 5 passages to underline that are significant to the piece as a whole. Students will then share their findings in small groups or pairings. Then, each group will select 1-2 significant moments and 1-2 moments they question or feel uncertain about. These will be shared out with the larger group and discussed for textual evidence and substantiation. This conversation will be supported by a written evaluation of conclusions that are drawn by individual students following the discussion. This culminating writing can occur either in class or as homework.

Notes:
The questions provided in the prompt are a mere sample of possible text dependent questions that could be used to stimulate close reading.

ANALYZING TEXT: Explain the influence of historical context on the form, style, and point of view of a written work.

SHORT CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
How does The Awakening speak to the roles of women and the conventions of literature at the end of the 19th century?

Pacing: 2- 60 minute class periods

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
Presentations and notes are accurate according to the information. The short constructed response will make at least three connections between the context and the events in the text.

Teaching Strategies:
Present the following information and complete web searches in pairs to identify context
Taken directly from the EDSITEment unit:
Activity 1. Chopin in Context
The following information is useful for introducing and contextualizing the novel for students. The teacher may want to use these resources as the stage for a web research exercise, allowing some students to research aspects of Chopin's life, her environs and culture influences. Alternatively, the teacher might introduce the activities below with a brief lecture, drawing from the following resources.

Introducing Kate Chopin:
Chronology of her life with EDSITEment resource Kate Chopin: A Re-Awakening
About Kate Chopin, via Documenting the American South
Biography of Kate Chopin through EDSITEment resource Scribbling Women (free registration required)

Geography: A map of Louisiana (circa 1895) is available via EDSITEment-reviewed American Memory Project.
American Authors on the Web, via EDSITEment-reviewed Center for the Liberal Arts, links to Dr. Ewell's Kate Chopin page, which has several images of Chopin, as well as the setting she wrote about—Grand Isle. (Note: the images include a hurricane map—in 1893 a large hurricane swept through that region.)
EDSITEment-reviewed Xpeditions has a map of Louisiana available. Grand Isle (not labeled on the map) is almost due South of New Orleans, on the Gulf Coast.
Yahoo Maps, available via EDSITEment-reviewed resource Internet Public Library, has a map of Grand Isle (use the zoom feature to get a broader context of its location).

Creoles:
Chopin’s novel, while universal in its themes, depends heavily on Louisiana Creole culture for its effect. French Creoles in Louisiana: An American Tale, curriculum developed by Harriet J. Bauman for the Yale-New Haven Teachers Institute, has a great deal of useful information about Creole culture, available through Domestic Goddesses: AKA Scribbling Women (a link from EDSITEment-reviewed Kate Chopin: A Re-Awakening). The Encyclopedia of Cajun Culture, available through EDSITEment-reviewed Internet Public Library, has brief essays on a variety of relevant topics, including the meaning of Creole and Cajun.

Students may wish to compare Chopin’s representation of Creole culture with George Cable’s Who Are the Creoles?, which was published in 1883 (and available through the American Memory Project). Cable’s article is lengthy, but the first few pages provide some description of Louisiana, and images (engravings) of old New Orleans and other sites are interspersed throughout the remainder of the article (which deals predominantly with the history of Louisiana Creole culture). The article extends from page 384 to page 398. The introduction and Section VII: "What is a Creole?" (which begins on page 395) serves as perhaps the most useful for reference or review.

Following the EDSITEment lesson, students will share the knowledge they gained through mini-presentations done in a "stations" format in which students will rotate through the presentation stations and take notes on various aspects. Partners will then return to their group and share the notes gathered.

Students will then complete a short constructed response to connect the context with events and characters from the novel.
Notes:
The small group rotations allows students to present without feeling the pressure of presenting before the whole class.

Accomodations and Interventions:
Students connections will be followed by an evaluation of causation by the advanced students.

FUNCTIONAL LANGUAGE ANALYSIS: Ability to evaluate the construction of meaning through syntax, grammar, and word choice; specifically: experiential, interpersonal, and textual meanings.

NOTES
Notes and Annotation:

Pacing: 2-4 class periods

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
No scoring at this time. This is the first time it is introduced, so it is only informal to determine readiness of depth of evaluation.

Teaching Strategies:
As a class, the teacher will read and think aloud through the excerpt from T. Powell (2009) regarding the Africanist presence in The Awakening (see attached). Students will build of of the Anti-canon (See attached article) work of Huckleberry Finn to determine hidden ideologies in the language of text.
Students will then take notes through direct instruction about the principles of Functional Language Analysis (Fang and Schleppegrell, 2008. Students will then evaluate the grammar of a section of The Awakening or "Desiree's Baby" for positioning of the subject, particularly the use of grammar in creating "metaphysical condensation" (qtd in Powell, 276). Students will analyze the text to locate additional examples0 particularly in the undiscussed text, "Desiree's Baby."

Notes:
Based upon the work of Fang and Schleppegrell (2008)

Transition to Writing

BRIDGING DISCUSSION: Discuss how two or more texts from the same period treat similar
NOTES
How do two or more texts from the same period treat similar topics?

Pacing: 3-4 60 minute class periods

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
Scoring based upon relevance and substantiation of ideas if scoring is used.

Teaching Strategies:
Students will lead Socratic seminar discussion of the text in which students develop their own text-based questions following a similar line of thought as the prompt. Students will work on text-based questions in the class prior. This will be followed by a gallery walk in which students respond to the following posted around the room: social commentary, gender lens, social class lens, realism, political commentary. Students will be asked to relate the topic to any or all of the texts under study by Kate Chopin. The idea is to informally assess the students ability to make connections on their own between the texts and the larger ideas under study.

Notes:
Be sure to have poster-sixed paper for posting around the room for the gallery walk

Accomodations and Interventions:
One strategy to possibly use is to not allow any verbal communication during the gallery walk process, only written communication. This can also be done using a site like Edmodo or Blogger for facilitating the conversation with various postings for the students to respond to.

Writing Process

THESIS: Ability to establish a thesis.

SHORT CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Position statement:
“Write 1-3 sentence thesis statement which establishes the focus and purpose of your work.”

Pacing: Homework +1- 60 minute class period

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
• Writes a concise summary statement or draft opening that:
  - Provides direct answer to main prompt.
  - Establishes claim or position for the paper.
• Identifies key points that support development of argument.

Teaching Strategies:
Students will develop a thesis statement as homework. During class, students will all write their thesis statements on the board/walls and use a gallery walk technique in which they read and comment for revision on each others' thesis statements. Students will then revise their individual thesis statements for effectiveness.

DRAFT DEVELOPMENT: Ability to construct an initial draft with an emerging line of thought and structure and make clarifying warrants, connections and provide supportive textual examples as evidence.

LONG CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Initial Draft:
“Write an initial draft complete with opening, development of warrants, connections within and amongst texts, and utilize supportive and relevant textual evidence.”
Cite as necessary

Pacing: over three nights as homework leading with one 60 minute period in class

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
• Provides complete draft with all parts.
• Supports the stated position with clarifying warrants, evidence, and citations in each section.

Teaching Strategies:
Have students develop an initial outline, which includes specific textual passages as support. (prior to class)
Using a writer's workshop model, have each student orally walk-through their argument to develop and articulate understandings prior to writing.

PEER EDITING AND REVISION: Ability to proofread a peer's writing and make meaningful revision suggestions for a piece to make it more effective and substantiated.

LONG CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Edit a classmate's draft according to the peer editing form
Pacing: 1-2 60 minute class periods

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
All areas of the peer editing form are responded to and comments written. Following revisions, student provides draft free from distracting errors.

Teaching Strategies:
Review elements of peer editing form.
Students will use the remainder of class to review a peer’s paper according to the peer editing form

Notes:
see attached peer editing form

What Instruction

- Mini-tasks and scoring guides relate to skills list.
- Mini-tasks support the skills, texts, and teaching task, (including prompt, content, discipline, text(s), and student product)
- Instructional strategies support the mini-tasks and completion of the teaching task, (including prompt, content, discipline, text(s), and student product).
- Pacing is realistic.
- Materials, references, and supports used in instruction are attached, linked, or cited in enough detail to allow other teachers to obtain them.

Exemplar 2

What Results

- The mini-tasks and instructional strategies are coherent, tightly aligned to the skills, and well designed to support student success on the teaching task.
- The mini-tasks and instructional strategies explicitly build student capacity to understand and analyze complex texts.

Overview

Rethinking Ophelia

by Kimba Rael, Cole Larsen, Annette Chavez, Andrea Martinez, Gilbert Apodaca, Michelle Devine, Curtis Garcia, Gayle Jones Westerberg, Janice Price, and Tara Henderson

This unit begins with a reading of Hamlet through the gender and social class theoretical lenses. The module will serve as the culminating writing for the entire unit; although, it is not inclusive of the actual reading of Hamlet. The purpose of the module is to examine the role of Ophelia in Hamlet based upon the social perceptions found in the readings. The unit is taught during the second quarter following work on multiple perspectives.

Section 1: What Task?

TEACHING TASK

Task Template 14 — [1 Level]  Informational & Description

L1: How can a gender theoretical lens shape the way Ophelia is perceived in Hamlet? After reading Hamlet and other essays, write a literature review of each of the three essays that describes and analyzes the content of each reading from a gender perspective and addresses the question. Support your discussion with evidence from the text(s).

STUDENT BACKGROUND

Over the past several weeks, we have delved into the literary critics world of multiple perspectives. Theoretical lenses have illuminated social and cultural patterns and perpetuations of various ideologies that wait softly below the surfaces of texts. While reading Shakespeare’s Hamlet, you were invited to read the text through the gender and social class lenses. We will embark upon a contemporary exploration of Ophelia and the social perceptions of her character by examining literary nonfiction critiques of her character.

Common Core Anchor Standards — Reading

R.CCR.1: Read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.

R.CCR.2: Determine central ideas or themes of a text and analyze their development; summarize the key supporting details and ideas.

R.CCR.4: Interpret words and phrases as they are used in a text, including determining technical, connotative, and figurative meanings, and analyze how specific word choices shape meaning or tone.

R.CCR.6: Assess how point of view or purpose shapes the content and style of a text.

R.CCR.10: Read and comprehend complex literary and informational texts independently and proficiently.

Common Core Anchor Standards — Writing

W.CCR.2: Write informative/explanatory texts to examine and convey complex ideas and information clearly and accurately through the effective selection, organization, and analysis of content.

W.CCR.4: Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.

W.CCR.5: Develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, editing, rewriting, or trying a new approach.

W.CCR.9: Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research.

W.CCR.10: Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of tasks, purposes, and audiences.

Colorado — Reading, Writing and Communicating - (Reading for All Purposes)

RWC.11.2.1.A.I: Use Key Ideas and Details to: Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text, including determining where the text leaves matters uncertain. (CCSS: RL.11-12.1)

CONSIDERING THE PROMPT: Ability to identify the key aspects of the prompt.

Activating Prior Knowledge

REVIEWING THE GENDER LENS: Ability to apply the gender lens to text.

Reading Process

WORKS CITED OF SELECTED TEXT: Ability to correctly format a works cited page according to the MLA style guide.

ACTIVE READING: Ability to identify the central point and main supporting elements of a text. L2 In your discussion, address the credibility and origin of the essays. L3 Identify any gaps or unanswered questions.

ESSENTIAL VOCABULARY: Ability to identify and master terms essential to understanding a text.

NOTE-TAKING AND ANNOTATION: Ability to select passages relevant to the task for use in the literature review and analysis.

Transition to Writing

RECONSIDERING THE PROMPT: Ability to break the prompt into the individual components necessary to answer effectively.

Writing Process

THESIS: Ability to establish a well-crafted thesis statement.

PLANNING: Ability to develop a line of thought and text structure appropriate to a literary review/informational analysis.

DEVELOPMENT: Ability to construct an initial draft with an emerging line of thought and structure. (L2) Identifies thorough and purposeful textual evidence.

Section 3: What Instruction?

MiniTasks

Understanding the Prompt

CONSIDERING THE PROMPT: Ability to identify the key aspects of the prompt.

NOTES
In groups, underline the genre(s) the prompt wants you to write in, star the verbs of what you will be doing, and circle the content you will be using.

Pacing: 20 min.

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
Formative:
- needs to underline: literary review, describes, and analyzes.
- needs to star: describes, analyzes, and addresses.
- needs to circle: Hamlet and other essays, from the gender perspective, the question (How can a gender theoretical lens shape the way Ophelia is perceived in Hamlet?)

Teaching Strategies:
Think, pair, share

Activating Prior Knowledge

REVIEWING THE GENDER LENS: Ability to apply the gender lens to text.

SHORT CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Discuss the gender lens and how a reader uses it to evaluate text.

Pacing: 20 min.

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
Response adequately explains the purpose and process of using the gender lens by stating an adequate definition and provides an example from Hamlet or another text previously discussed.

Teaching Strategies:
In pairs, write on a small white board, or similar, a response to the prompt. Compare answers amongst groups and discuss as a whole class.
Notes:
This is a review of a previously discussed term. The intention is not new learning, but a review of a term that was in use during the past two units.

Reading Process

WORKS CITED OF SELECTED TEXT: Ability to correctly format a works cited page according to the MLA style guide.

LIST
Works Cited:
“For each text, create a works cited entry that incorporates all necessary components of a properly formatted item.”

Pacing: 15 min.

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
• Identifies author, title, publisher, date, and any other needed information (for example, the volume for a periodical or the editor for an anthology).
• Correctly formatted

Teaching Strategies:
• Provide MLA style guide and discuss why each element of citation is needed.
• First, cite one source, Hamlet, whole group. Remind students about formatting: alphabetical, reverse paragraph structure, and spacing.

ACTIVE READING: Ability to identify the central point and main supporting elements of a text. L2 In your discussion, address the credibility and origin of the essays. L3 Identify any gaps or unanswered questions.

SHORT CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Short reflective entry for each text:
“What is this article about and what does it tell me about Ophelia and social perceptions of her role/ women, give supporting details?
L2 In your discussion, address the credibility and origin of the essay.
L3 Identify any gaps or unanswered questions.

Pacing: 1 class period per essay
Pacing: on-going when reading at home: 10 minutes start of each class upon return

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
• Answers questions with credible response.

Teaching Strategies:
• Invite students to share and discuss their answers for each text in a literature discussion group
• After the discussion, allow them to add to their entries.
• Discuss any issues or areas of confusion that arose with the reading of each article.
Model using think aloud for especially confusing passages such as with “On Ophelia’s Madness”
• Have students mark the text with sticky notes (different colors, for example Yellow means you have a question, start these with “I wonder…”; Blue means you don’t understand, start these with “I don’t understand…” ; Green you make a connection, start these with “This reminds me of…”; Red can be a conclusion, start these with “I think…”) or
• Annotate directly on the copy of the essay

NOTES
sticky ntes

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
None

ESSENTIAL VOCABULARY: Ability to identify and master terms essential to understanding a text.

LIST
“In your Reader’s Response Journal, list and describe/define words, and phrases that challenge your understanding of the texts.”

Pacing: on-going when reading at home: 10 minutes start of each class upon return

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
• Completes mini-task.
• Shares during class discussion time.

Teaching Strategies:
• Make pictorial representations or use graphic organizers to illustrate vocabulary terms (e.g. word mapping).
• Write definitions in their own words.
• Select key terms discussed as a group and create vocabulary cards: Front side contains the word and a graphic representation/ the back side contains the definition or description, a sentence depicting the words meaning and the contextual sentence.

NOTE-TAKING AND ANNOTATION: Ability to select passages relevant to the task for use in the literature review and analysis.

NOTES
Notes and Annotation:
“For each text, take notes and/or annotate elements relevant to the task. Make sure you have the information to do a citation when needed to avoid plagiarism.”

Pacing: 1 class period

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
• Identifies relevant elements – quotes and explanations.
• Includes necessary citation information to support facts, questions, etc. (for example, page numbers for a long text, clear indication when quoting directly).

Teaching Strategies:
• Teach strategies for note taking and/or annotation.
• Check that early student work is in MLA format.
• Explain textual evidence choices to a partner for feedback regarding ability of the text to support purpose.

Transition to Writing

RECONSIDERING THE PROMPT: Ability to break the prompt into the individual components necessary to answer effectively.

LIST
“Review the task and identify key points and information from text(s) that will help you address the task.”

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
No Scoring

Teaching Strategies:
Writing Process

THESIS: Ability to establish a well-crafted thesis statement.

SHORT CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Thesis statement:
Develop a thesis statement that incorporates your entry point into the analysis.

Pacing: 1 class period

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
- Writes a concise summary statement or draft opening.
- Provides direct answer to main prompt requirements.
- Establishes a thesis (focusing idea).
- Identifies key points that support development of argument.

Teaching Strategies:
- Students will write a thesis statement as homework the night before.
- All students will write their thesis statements on the board.
- With their own markers, all students will comment on each others thesis statement regarding the effectiveness of each thesis, the relevancy to the task, and the grammatical correctness.
- Students will read the comments on their thesis statement.
- Whole class discussion while reviewing each statement and the quality of the comments.
- Students will then revise or rewrite their individual thesis statement.

PLANNING: Ability to develop a line of thought and text structure appropriate to a literary review/informational analysis.

OUTLINE
Outline/organizer:
“Create an outline or organizer based on your notes and reading in which you state your claim, sequence your points, and note your supporting evidence.”

Pacing: Homework
Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
- Creates an outline or organizer.
- Supports thesis.
- Uses evidence from texts analyzed earlier.

Teaching Strategies:
- Discuss the characteristics of a literature review
- Discuss possible textual structures to use to meet the demands of the prompt. For example, the first three sections of the body could each summarize and analyze the gender viewpoint being perpetuated one for each essay and then a final section could be dedicated to answering the question; or the questions could be woven throughout each section as each essay is described and analyzed from the perspective of the question.

DEVELOPMENT: Ability to construct an initial draft with an emerging line of thought and structure. (L2) identifies thorough and purposeful textual evidence.

LONG CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Initial Draft:
“Write an initial draft complete with opening, development, and closing; insert and cite textual evidence in-text.”

Pacing: 1 day in class, two night homework

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
- Provides complete draft with all parts.
- Thesis is supported in the later sections with evidence and citations.
- All aspects of prompt are addressed: description, analysis, and response to question

REVISION: Ability to refine text, so that literature review summaries explicitly connect with the analysis, and correctly use in-text citation.

LONG CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Multiple Drafts:
Use strategies which refine the work’s logic, reasoning, and organization of ideas/points. Use textual evidence carefully, with accurate citations. Decide what to include and what not to include.

Pacing: 1 class period
Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
- Provides complete draft with all parts.
- Supports the opening in the later sections with evidence and citations.
- Improves earlier edition.

Teaching Strategies:
- Peer conferencing in the model of writing studio.
- Each peer reads their partner's paper to them aloud making suggestions for clarity and development of ideas. The students who wrote the paper will write any notations, comments, or corrections directly on the draft essay.
- A new draft will be re-written for homework.

EDITING: Ability to proofread and format a piece to make it more effective.

LONG CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Correct Draft:
Revise draft to have sound spelling, capitalization, punctuation and grammar. Adjust formatting as needed to provide clear, appealing text.

Pacing: Homework: three nights

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
- Provides draft free from distracting surface errors.
- Uses format that supports purpose.

Teaching Strategies:

COMPLETION: Ability to submit final piece that meets expectations.

LONG CONSTRUCTED RESPONSE
Turn in your complete set of drafts, plus the final version of your work.

Scoring Guide: work meets expectations if:
- Submits final work for evaluation on time.

<td>This module asks students to perform a close reading of two important Humanities Texts: the Declaration of Independence (1776) and the Declaration of Sentiments (1848). For this reason, Skills Cluster 2: Reading Process will be repeated during the instructional process for this module. The Paideia Seminar discussion will focus on the Declaration of Sentiments (adopted at the Women’s Right Convention held at Seneca Falls, NY); although, students will be encouraged to refer to both texts during the discussion. In the essay itself, students should refer to both texts in extensive detail in making their arguments.</td>

Section 1: What Task?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Teaching task:</th>
<th>Should the Declaration of Sentiments (Seneca Falls 1848) be read as an extension of the Declaration of Independence (Philadelphia 1776) or an entirely separate document? After reading the Declaration of Independence and the Declaration of Sentiments, write an essay in which you compare the two and argue one point of view or the other. Support your position with evidence from the texts.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Reading texts: | The Declaration of Independence (Philadelphia 1776)
The Declaration of Sentiments (Seneca Falls 1848) |
| Background to share with students: | The battle for women’s rights and women’s suffrage continued throughout the western world during the 19th and 20th centuries. The American women’s rights movement—led by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony—met in a famous convention at Seneca Falls, NY in July 1848. At that meeting, the delegates debated and signed both a Set of Resolutions specific to the time and place as well as a general Declaration of Sentiments modeled on the Declaration of Independence by Thomas Jefferson, written 72 years before. The fight for women’s suffrage would continue for 71 more years, until the passage of the 19th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution in 1919. Seen in this light, the 1848 Declaration of Sentiments marked the halfway point between the original Declaration of Independence and the 19th Amendment to the Constitution. |
| Extension: | (Mandatory in Paideia modules: authentic audience for written product) The final, publishable drafts of the student papers will be collected and published for the following audiences: one copy for each student, one copy for circulation in the teacher’s classroom, one copy for circulation in the school media center, and one copy for each of the local state and federal representatives. |

SKILLS CLUSTER 3: DIALOGUE PROCESS (SEMINAR)

Day 4-5

Analytical Read:
Declaration of Sentiments
Ability to read the entire text carefully and construct a surface understanding of the elements of the text.

Close reading and summary of text sections
Collaborate with your fellow students (in groups of three to) to take turns reading paragraphs aloud, pausing after each of the six sections as identified by your teacher to compose a short summary of that section. Mark your own copy of the text with questions you may want to ask during the class seminar.

- Each student has both a well-marked up copy of the seminar text and a separate summary of each of the six sections of the text.
- Divide students into groups of three and have them read the entire text together aloud, taking turns with each paragraph. As they read, have them pause after each of the following sections to work together to compose a summary of that section: 1. Paragraph one; 2. Paragraph two; 3. Paragraph three plus the 16 facts or arguments; 4. Paragraph beginning “Now, in view of this”; 5. Paragraph beginning “In entering upon”; and 6. Paragraph beginning “Firmly relying.”
- Discuss briefly the purpose of the six sections with the entire class.

Day 6

1. Pre-Seminar Process
   - Ability to reflect on personal communication habits and select appropriate speaking and listening goals.
   - Self-assessment
     - Based on the list of Speaking and Listening behaviors, note in writing a goal for your personal participation in the upcoming dialogue. See Appendix.
   - Choose appropriate individual process goal based on past seminar performance
   - Teacher should identify a collection of appropriate speaking and listening goals for the group. Students select what they will work on individually and note it in writing on the Seminar Process Assessment sheet included in the Appendices to this module. The group participation goal is discussed and posted where all can see.

2. Seminar:
   - Ability to think critically and collaboratively in a group about concepts and ideas of a text through a structured Paideia seminar.
   - Participate in the Seminar and focus on your goals.
   - No scoring
   - PLEASE use the Seminar Plan in the Appendix.

3. Post-Seminar:
   - Ability to self-assess on speaking and listening skills practiced in the seminar and note relevant communication goals for future discussions.
   - Self-Assessment
     - Reflect back on your participation goal, then finish filling out the Seminar Process Assessment form; write a short reflective work on your seminar performance in detail.
   - Answers task by filing in form completely.
   - Writes in detail about seminar participation
   - PLEASE use the Seminar Process Script in the Appendix.

Have a few representative students share their goal for speaking and listening and their performance. Likewise, may ask the entire goal to reflect on the entire dialogue process, i.e. the group effort. In whatever format is preferred, both individual and group reflections should be archived for reference at the beginning of the next Seminar.
Day 7

1. Tasks Analysis and Response
- Ability to re-examine the writing task in the context of the seminar and note relevant elements from the seminar.

Short response
- In a quick write, write your first reaction to the task prompt. After re-examining the prompt, note everything that you heard, said, or thought during the seminar that is related to the task. (Do not worry about grammar, punctuation, or spelling at this point.)

No scoring
- Link this task to earlier class content.
- Discuss student quick-write responses with the whole class.
- Clarify timetable and support plans for the task.

SKILLS CLUSTER 4: WRITING PROCESS

Days 7 and 8

1. Note-taking
- Ability to select important facts and passages for use in one’s own writing.

Notes
- From the story, make a list of the elements that look most important for answering the prompt. Do what you need to do to avoid plagiarism.
  - L2 What implications can you draw? (Tasks 11, 12)
  - L3 Why is it important in the process of inquiry to “identify gaps” or “unanswered questions” about the topic?

Identifies relevant elements.
- Includes information to support accurate citation (for example, page numbers for a long text, clear indication when quoting directly).

Teach a model format for note taking.
- Check that early student work is in the assigned format (or in another format that gathers the needed information effectively).

Day 8

2. Initiating the Task (Controlling idea)
- Ability to establish a controlling idea and consolidate information relevant to task.

Opening paragraph
- Write an opening paragraph that includes a controlling idea and sequences the key points you plan to make in your composition

Writes a concise summary statement or draft opening.
- Provides direct answer to main prompt requirements.
- Establishes a controlling idea.
- Identifies key points that support development of argument.

Offer several examples of opening paragraphs.
- Ask class to discuss what makes them strong or weak.
- Review the list that students created earlier to identify needed elements (from Cluster 1, skill 2).

Day 9

3. Planning
- Ability to develop a line of thought and text structure appropriate to an information/explanation task.

Outline/organizer
- Create an outline based on your notes and reading in which you state your claim, sequence your points, and note your supporting evidence.

Creates an outline or organizer.
- Supports controlling idea.
- Uses evidence from texts read earlier.

Provide and teach one or more examples of outlines or organizers.
- Invite students to generate questions in pairs about how the format works, and then take and answer questions.

Days 9 and 10

4. Initial Draft and Development
- Ability to construct an initial draft with an emerging line of thought and structure.

Draft
- Write an initial draft complete with opening, development, and closing; insert and cite textual evidence. L2 Address the credibility and origin of sources in view of your research topic. L3 Identify gaps or unanswered questions.

Provides complete draft with all parts.
- Supports the opening in the later sections with evidence and citations.

Encourage students to re-read prompt partway through writing, to check that they are on-track.

STUDENT WORK SAMPLES
[Include at least two samples of student work at each scoring level.]

CLASSROOM ASSESSMENT TASK (OPTIONAL: MAY BE USED AS PRE-TEST OR POST-TEST)

| Classroom assessment task | After reading the following quote from the “Resolutions” passed at the 1848 Seneca Falls Woman’s Rights Convention, write a fully developed paragraph in which you analyze why the delegates chose to make this their first resolution:

“Resolved. That such laws as conflict, in any way, with the true and substantial happiness of woman, are contrary to the great precept of nature, and of no validity; for this [law of Nature] is superior in obligation to any other.” |

| Background to share with students (optional): | At the same 1848 Woman’s Rights Convention, the delegates passed a set of “Resolution” in addition to the Declaration of Sentiments. These “Resolutions” are interesting in their own right and serve as a sort of preface to the Declaration of Sentiments. |

| Reading texts: | “Resolutions” from the 1848 Woman’s Rights Convention held in Seneca Fall. Note that the “Resolutions” are a separate text from the Declaration of Sentiments. |

| LDC Informational/Explanatory Classroom Assessment | MEETS EXPECTATIONS |
| Focus | Addresses prompt with a focused response. |
| Reading/Research | Presents and applies relevant information with general accuracy. |
| Controlling Idea | Establishes a controlling idea that states the main purpose and/or question for the tasks. |
| Development | Presents sufficient information in order to examine or convey topics or issues, answer questions, solve problems; identifies salient themes or features; explains key information with sufficient detail. |
| Organization | Applies a generally effective structure to address specific requirements of the prompt. |
| Conventions | Demonstrates a command of standard English conventions and cohesion; employs language and tone appropriate to audience and purpose. |

| NOT YET |
| Focus | Attempts to address prompt but lacks focus or is off-task. |
| Reading/Research | Attempts to present information relevant to prompt. |
| Controlling Idea | Controlling idea is weak and does not establish a purpose and/or address a research question. |
| Development | Tends to retell rather than present information in order to answer questions, solve problems; lacks details to develop topic. *L2 Implications are weak or not relevant to topic. |
| Organization | Applies an ineffective structure; composition does not address requirements of the prompt. |
| Conventions | Demonstrates a weak command of standard English conventions; lacks cohesion; language and tone are inappropriate to audience and purpose. |
Teacher Work Section
Here are added thoughts about teaching this module.

Note that the Declaration of Independence was the product of a small committee of writers, primarily Thomas Jefferson, who created a formal justification for the 13 colonies’ political separation from England.

Further note that the Declaration of Sentiments was also the product of a small group of writers, who then submitted the draft document to the entire 1848 Woman’s Rights Convention.

Appendix
The attached materials support teaching this module.

Pre-Seminar Process—Prepare participants to participate in seminar discussion with a version of the following script:

“A Paideia Seminar is a time when we talk with each other about important ideas. This is a civil dialogue where we think together in a collaborative fashion.

“The purpose of seminar is to arrive at a fuller understanding of some important ideas, including: (list 2-3 key ideas in text). In other words, we are working to come to a better understanding of what we think as individuals, what others in this room think about the and what (give text title) says.

“In Paideia Seminar we have specific roles and responsibilities. As participants, I am asking you to think, listen, and speak candidly about your thoughts, reactions, and ideas. Let me say this again, you job here is to think, to listen, and to share your thoughts.

“You do not need to raise your hands in order to speak; rather, the discussion is collaborative in that you try to stay focused on the speaker and wait your turn to talk.

“Because this is a discussion about ideas, you may see something differently from someone else and I encourage you to express that. Try to agree and disagree in a courteous, thoughtful manner. For example, you might say, 'I disagree with Joanna because I read the text (cite specifically) in this way...,' focus on the ideas involved, not personal stances. Pay attention to your tone and you can also do this well by using each other’s names. Remember the goal is for all of us to better understand this text and the ideas.

“As the facilitator, my job is to ask challenging, open-ended questions. I will also take notes to keep up with the talk and flow of ideas.”

“Now, let’s think about how we talk with each other in a whole class discussion. I’d like you to do a short self-assessment about your speaking and listening habits. You know yourself better than anyone. Think about how you usually participate in a large group discussion? How do you usually talk? Are you better at listening?

“Consider this list of personal participation goals listed on the board/ handout skills list.”

- Ask a question
- Look at the person speaking
- Refer to the text
- Agree and disagree respectfully
- Speak out of uncertainty

“Please choose one goal from the list that’s most appropriate for you today. We’ll all commit to focusing on these goals during our discussion. Write down/ highlight your goal on paper.”

Seminar Questions
Reiterate that our purpose is to discuss Government, Gender, Liberty, Society.

Invite participants to take a few minutes to look back at their notes on their text and/or graphic organizer. Remind participants to use agreed about upon structural reference (from Inspectional Read) when referring to the text.

Opening Question – (Identify main ideas from the text):

What one sentence in the Declaration of Sentiments’ argument for women’s rights do you find most convincing? (round-robin response) Why? (spontaneous discussion)

Core Questions- (Focus/analyze textual details):

Why do you think the authors chose to title this document a Declaration of Sentiments, rather than some other title?

The section of the Declaration that introduces the list of evidence reads: “The history of mankind is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations on the part of man toward woman, having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over her.” Based on this text, do you agree with this statement? Why or why not?

Of the 16 “facts” that are listed “to prove this” statement, which do you think is most compelling?

Who do you think is the “He” so often referred to in the 16 “facts”?

In what ways is the Declaration of Sentiments modeled on the Declaration of Independence? (volunteer to list the similarities on the board?) Why do you think the authors chose to create such a similar document?

In what ways is the Declaration of Sentiments different from the Declaration of Independence? (volunteer to list the differences on the board?) Why do you think the authors chose to depart from the model in these ways?

Closing Question – (Personalize and apply the textual ideas):

If you had been a delegate to the 1848 Woman’s Rights Convention (note that there were male delegates), would you have signed this document? Why or why not?

Post-Seminar Process – Assess individual and group participation with an appropriate version of the following script:
“Thank you for your focused and thoughtful participation in our seminar.
“Please take a few minutes to reflect on how you did with your personal process goal you set prior to beginning the discussion. Briefly note in writing to what extent you met the goal. In addition, note why you think you performed as you did.

“Would someone share what you set for your goal and how your did? (invite 3-4 participants to share)

“Given your performance today, please jot down what goal you might productively set for yourself in our next seminar. (If you have time, ask for whole group reflection and assess on how the collective process went.)
“As always, our goal is continuous improvement: both as individual seminar participants and as an evolving seminar group. Thanks again for your participation.”
